Shifting Strategic Partnerships into Positive Cash Flow

High-powered Speaker Robert L. Wallace Presents at 14th Annual Black Enterprise Entrepreneurs Conference May 17 – 20, 2009 in Detroit, Michigan

(Baltimore, MD) This year the Black Enterprise Entrepreneurs Conference gives the “Motor City” one more reason to rev its engine. Robert L. Wallace, renowned speaker, author, and engineer has been invited once again to present at the Black Enterprise Entrepreneurs Conference. His high-powered presentation is a part of the Small Business Success™ Boot Camp on Monday May 18, 2009 from 5:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. entitled “Cash Flow Management”. The one-of-a-kind conference is for entrepreneurs and professionals looking to find new markets and new opportunities. Wallace’s re-launched website www.RobertWallace.com features his books, tools, resources, and research geared for aspiring and established entrepreneurs. He describes what attendees can expect at his presentation, “One of the ways to build and manage cash flow and keep it moving in a positive direction is through creating and nurturing the right strategic partnerships. Both elements are vital when it comes to keeping your small, mid-size, or even large business afloat during these uncertain and unpredictable economic conditions.”

The Black Enterprise Entrepreneurs Conference + Expo is taking place May 17-20, 2009 at the Marriott Renaissance and COBO Convention Center in Detroit, Michigan. This year’s theme is Shifting Gears: New Markets, New Opportunities. Hosted by Exxon Mobile and General Motors, the three-day business conference and expo offers an opportunity for business growth and development which attracts the largest black-owned business leaders and professionals from around the nation and serves as an informational and mentoring event for aspiring entrepreneurs. More information can be found at www.BlackEnterprise.com.

Robert Wallace is a sought after speaker, five-time author, engineer, and business owner whose wealth of knowledge, experience, and extensive research on key components of entrepreneurship success cover a wide range of topics including building wealth, strategic partnerships, macroeconomics, and entrepreneurship.
